A further neighbour representation has been received following consultation on the revised package of details.

Objection to the proposal on the following ground:

- There is a covenant on the land which needs removal or amendment to allow for the development;
- The Ecology documents relate additionally to other development not within the current application.

Officers would advise that a granting of planning permission does not negate any civil constraints there may be on the site, such as covenants, but civil constraints are not material under planning policy and legislation and would not warrant the refusal of a planning permission.

In respect to the Ecology document that document has been reviewed in the light of the current proposal only and no other works that may be outlined in that document.

On the basis of KCC Archaeology's consultation response, a method statement for the fountain restoration works will be required via planning condition to be submitted to and approved by the Local Planning Authority.

Following a site visit the Council's Arboriculture Manager has visited the site and has supplied the following additional comments :

I would like clarification on in respect of this application

- Why does the tree at the top of the driveway need to be removed? What is the justification for this?
- There appears to have been a lot of un-consented tree work undertaken on site with the majority of trees severely pollarded/ reduced. This needs to be investigated.
- Why is there no formal pre-development tree survey to BS5837:2012 submitted to support this application? The current 'tree survey' document does not address any of the issues required under the BS.

I would appreciate it if these points could be addressed before determination of this application

It should be noted that a pre-development Tree Survey has been submitted with the application but it is not following the requirements of the British Standard 5837:2012 'Trees in relation to construction'.

The comments of the Arboriculture Manager have been forwarded to the applicant, via his agent, to respond.
